

Jennifer Flynn Greaner
Senior Account Manager
Broadridge

Jennifer Flynn Greaner is a native Houstonian with a passion for helping people. After receiving her Psychology and Marketing degree from Texas A&M University, she began a career in sales. After seven years of selling commercial print and 3 years of Information Technology sales to Houston's largest Oil and Gas companies she joined the team at Broadridge (formerly ADP) in 2006. This year she will celebrate her 12th year with Broadridge and plays an integral role in providing public companies counsel on strategic approaches to streamline their proxy process and effectively reaching both registered and beneficial shareowners. Leveraging years of experience and knowledge surrounding proxy processing and shareowner communications has earned Jennifer the role of a trusted advisor to some of the largest Fortune 500 companies throughout our region. She attributes her success to her ability to make the role of managing proxy and investor communication programs as simple and efficient as possible by listening to your individual needs and helping you map the best solution. From Notice & Access, virtual shareholder meetings, registrar and transfer agent services to the latest on how voting will be impacted by SEC rule changes, she is a valuable resource and is happy to be a part of our panel discussion today.

Cherryl Valenzuela
Senior Manager of Investor Relations
Twitter

Cherryl Valenzuela is Senior Manager of Investor Relations for Twitter. Prior to joining Twitter, Ms. Valenzuela spent over six years as an investor relations officer at Informatca and JDSU. She has over 10 years of experience in the equity and fixed income capital markets and management consulting, working at Goldman Sachs, Gartner, McKinsey and Merrill Lynch. She is a Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) and Certified FP&A Professional.